

presents the inaugural
Seven Bends Lecture

West of the Mountains of Cenuntua: The Archaeology of the Shenandoah's North Fork Valley

Carole L. Nash, PhD

Sunday, March 5th, 2pm

St. Paul's Heritage Center
106 S. High Street
Edinburg Virginia

Dr. Nash is Associate Professor of Integrated Science and Technology at James Madison University and Director of Archaeological Assessment, Shenandoah National Park.

An archaeologist with 35 years of experience in the Middle Atlantic region, Nash has authored over 100 technical reports and articles on the culture history of the Appalachians. She directs the Archeological Certification Program for the Virginia Department of Historic Resources, a collaborative, citizen science program that engages the public in the documentation and preservation of heritage resources.

Friends of the North Fork serves as the community support organization for Seven Bends State Park. Get involved!

sevenbends.info